

RAILROAD MEN DISCUSS NEW LAW

The chief points which were to be brought up at the meeting, according to officials who are here, were:

What action can be taken to prevent congress from passing a law compelling arbitration of all differences between the railroads and their men?

What action shall be taken in the event the Adamson law is held invalid by the supreme court?

What action shall be taken in the

What shall be done if the law is upheld but the railroads find methods of evading its terms?

Unofficial predictions were that the brotherhoods might decide to strike quickly unless some move is made.

Switchmen, who are not affected by the Adamson law, were threatening a strike as they prepared for their sub-conferences today. The terms of a recent award by an eastern board of arbitration were the subject of their grievances. An increase of five cents an hour was given switchmen on thirteen eastern roads but no provision was made to raise the pay of the men employed on the principal western lines.

DISEASE OF POPLARS SPREAD TO NEW YORK

Although New York was not included among the states where a serious fungus disease of poplars was reported by the federal authorities, the state college of agriculture announces that the disease has been found on Long Island. This disease is similar in appearance to that which destroys the chestnut trees and may be found on any species of poplars or cottonwoods. Trees attacked by this fungus show cankers or depressed areas in the bark, these spread rapidly and often girdle the twig, limb, or trunk of the tree killing the part above the canker; the trees become ragged in appearance and finally die. This is especially true of the Lombardy poplars so often planted in rows along highways. The fungus which causes this disease, according to the authorities, was imported from Europe and is especially severe on stored and transplanted nursery stock. The centers of infection appear to be, in every case, either certain nurseries known to contain diseased trees, or points where poplars from such nurseries have been planted. Residents of New York who think their trees are affected by this disease, may receive exact information by sending samples to the department of plant pathology, New York State college of agriculture, Ithaca, New York.

COTTERILL

Cotterill, Jan. 10.—The young people of this village expect to give a play in the future entitled "Cupid's Capers." A cordial invitation is extended to all. It will be given in the school house. Watch the columns of The Freeman for the date. Proceeds for the benefit of the Reformed Church.

Among those who are or have been ill in the last few days are Oscar Rider, Roy Styles, L. R. Conner, Garion Keator and Mrs. Lizzie Jones. The roads in this village are very icy. Cottage prayer meeting was held at the home of R. B. Walker on Tuesday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Mahlon Smith are planning to move to Ellenville, where Mr. Smith has a position with the Sun Ray Water Co. We are sorry to see these people leave this village as they have always been great church workers, and were always well liked socially. Our good wishes go with them.

Nearly all the auto enthusiasts have stored their cars for the winter, although Robert Stall is still running his flier. Several of the young people watched the first eclipse of the moon in 1917. Early Monday morning there was one of the eclipses of the moon due this year and four of the sun. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Davis observed a party of young folks to Tillson on Monday evening where they attended a skating party. A number of hunters in search of rabbits and other game report seeing a number of partridges in the woods. These birds, however, are protected by law, so it is well not to shoot them.

Garion Keator seems to keep his wood saw continually buzzing, on Tuesday being at Andrew Pine's. The increased price of gasoline and oil has compelled him to advance the price to ninety cents per cord and is open for business.

Fred DeWitt, of Kingston, our local game protector, spent Tuesday at his home here. A. J. Keator spent Tuesday with his parents here. At the regular annual election of officers in the Methodist Sunday school the corresponding has been notified that the following were elected for the ensuing year: John Wood, superintendent; John Locke, assistant superintendent; Robert Stall, organist; Gladys Styles, assistant organist; Miss Nellie Conner, second assistant organist; Robert Stall, secretary; Miss Nellie Conner, assistant secretary; Burton Davis, librarian; Robert Stall, assistant librarian; John Locke, treasurer.

Miss Florence Baston spent one day the past week at Kingston. J. Snyder spent Saturday at Kingston. John Short was in Kingston on Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Keator spent a few days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. John Tibbals at Kingston.

Dr. Mark O'Meara of Kingston, was called to this village to give Oscar Rider, who is dangerously ill, an examination. Miss Margaret Kennell and girl, who died in the army at Alexandria, friend of Kingston spent the week.

end with Miss Kennell's parents here. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Van Vleet of Kingston spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. James Snyder here. Mrs. Andrew Middlesbush is spending a few days with Mrs. James Pine. Mr. and Mrs. Eli De Puy spent a few days at Kingston recently. Fred Gillespie spent Tuesday at Kingston.

Mrs. L. R. Conner spent Saturday at Kingston. Mrs. James Pine spent a few days recently at Middletown. Mrs. J. A. Keator spent Wednesday at Kingston. James Gillespie of Kingston spent the week end with his brother here. R. B. Walker spent Saturday at Kingston. Miss Anna Short and little niece, Miss Eunice J. Short, of Port Ewen, spent the week end with the former's parents here.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Jan. 10.—The funeral of Alonzo Secor, who died in Kingston, was held from the O. S. Baptist Church Sunday morning. Mr. Secor was one of Olive's oldest citizens. He is survived by a sister and two brothers. Harry Bentley, who has been spending several days here, has returned to Poughkeepsie where he is employed in the Moline plow works. Mr. and Mrs. John McCabe have returned from a visit to Mr. McCabe's parents in New York. Samuel Wynkoop and family have moved to Kingston where their daughter, Bessie, is attending school. We understand that the Men's Club is planning another of their popular affairs to be held some time this month. Details will be published later.

Floyd Terwilliger of Ashokan is demonstrating a new Hupmobile car. J. H. Bevier of Samsonville was in this place Tuesday on business. Joseph Grady and family have moved from Brown's Station into their bungalow at Winston's. Blanche Every is spending some time with friends in Kingston. Mrs. Charles Page and children are visiting Mrs. Page's parents in Mr. Vernon.

Tax Collector Winchell will receive taxes on Friday, January 19, in Winchell's Hall. Dr. Smith of Kingston was in this place and West Shokan Monday on business. The Rev. George Gulick has resigned from his pastorate here. Mr. Gulick has accepted an offer from the Westchester County Sunday School Association, where he will have 20,000 Sunday school children under his supervision.

Winston's yard is a busy place these days with its varied activities. Nearly a million dollars worth of contracting supplies is stored there. Henry Elmendorf called on Freeman Every of West Shokan Tuesday. The young people seem to be having a rather quiet social season. Last year they had parties without end. One of Winchell's stages now goes around the west basin through West Shokan via the dividing weir, the route from Winchell's Corner to Kingston being the same as heretofore. Great head, Howard.

The ice crop seems rather uncertain. Nine inches is about the average. Southerly winds prevail and as if this were not enough the sleighing is practically gone, making it necessary to haul by wagon. ### GOOD EATING.

Bananas are like the poor, always with us, and the many ways that this wholesome fruit may be served is legion. Banana Pie.—Rice enough peeled bananas to fill a cup. To this add half a cupful of sugar, two tablespoonsful of molasses or the grated rind and juice of half a lemon, half a teaspoonful of salt, one beaten egg, one-third of a teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a cupful of milk, and a third of a cupful of cream. Mix all together thoroughly and bake until firm in a pie plate lined with pastry.

Mexican Rabbit.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan, add half a pound of American cheese, cut up in fine bits; stir until the cheese melts, add three-fourths of a cupful of corn meal and a large red pepper, cut in squares or shreds; then add the yolks or two eggs, beaten, and mixed with half a cupful of thick tomato puree, half a teaspoonful of salt, and half a teaspoonful of paprika; stir constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth. Have ready four slices of toasted bread, toasted on one side only. Cut a clove of garlic in halves and touch the untoasted side of the hot bread here and there with the garlic; pour over the rabbit and serve at once. A carefully poached egg may be set above each slice, which will furnish a hearty meal. Graham Bread.—Make a soft sponge of one cupful of warm milk, one teaspoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of butter, one-third of a yeast cake, dissolved in a fourth of a cupful of warm water, and white flour to make a thick batter. Cut the dough with a knife after beating it well and letting it stand overnight, then add three-fourths of a cupful of milk, three tablespoonsful of molasses, a half teaspoonful of soda and graham flour to make a thick batter. Knead with white flour; let rise, and when double its bulk, bake 45 minutes. Peas in Potato Cups.—Make small cups of mashed potato, brush with egg and brown, fill with creamed peas and serve at once.

POWER OF RADIUM

It May Be the Force Destined to Destroy the World.

TO DIE IN A BURST OF FLAME.

This Wonderful Element, It Is Claimed, Will First Emancipate Man and Then Later on Put an End to Him and All His Works in a Sea of Fire.

If we place a thermometer into a phial containing a minute quantity of radium bromide it will indicate a temperature 2.7 degrees hotter than the temperature outside of the phial.

What the temperature would be if we substituted radium for radium bromide we have no means of knowing, for science has not as yet produced pure radium, although the lay world prefers to think so. Our closest approach to radium so far has been radium bromide, which if pure consists roughly of three-fifths by weight of the element radium and two-fifths of the element bromine.

Turning back to our thermometer, we also make the discovery that the heat radiated from our speck of radium bromide does not grow less as the days and months—nay, years and centuries—roll by. The mysterious element continues to furnish prodigious amounts of energy, with never a let up or at least not until it has "worked" for 2,500 years, this being the present calculated age of radium.

In order to better comprehend what this means let us compare it with coal. This is what we find:

According to Professor Soddy, a gram of pure radium evolves 130 calories of heat an hour. In one year ($700 hours) the same gram of radium evolves 1,100,000 calories. In 2,500 years—the length of time radium will evolve energy—2,600,000,000 calories will be developed. Now, one gram of coal when burned evolves 2,200 net calories of heat. Consequently the energy developed by radium is more than a million times that furnished from the combustion of coal.

Commercial radium salts are at present obtained by working the Austrian pitchblende and lately from the American uraninite found in Colorado. These are practically the only commercial sources known today.

But radium is by no means as scarce as most people believe. Radium emanations have been found in springs, in the air, in rocks, etc., and this has given rise to an extraordinary theory regarding the evolution of the world.

When the famous Swiss-Italian Simplon tunnel was constructed some years ago totally unforeseen circumstances arose which made the work most difficult. Although this tunnel is far above sea level, the heat became insupportable as the work progressed. Arriving at the end of the tunnel, the workers found the heat so intense that they were obliged to retreat with their work. Professor Joly then made the astounding discovery that the rocks of the Simplon contained radium, which accounted for the unexpected high temperature within the mountain.

From this fact we learn that a new theory of evolution, and while revolutionary in the extreme, it is most plausible and gains more adherents each year.

Lord Kelvin already deduced that if the earth contained only two parts of radium per million million—and a great deal more is actually found in the rocks and crust of our globe—this minute quantity would raise the temperature of the earth's core 1,500 degrees C. in 100,000,000 years. There being no escape for the imprisoned heat, the earth's crust being an exceedingly bad heat conductor—Professor Joly convinces us that as the ages roll by the interior of the earth must become hotter and hotter. Finally, after the end of millions of millions of years the crust must give way to this tremendous heat from within and the bursting earth must go up in flames, becoming a burning gas ball, just as we see our sun today.

This will be the "incandescent age," a title suggested by Professor Soddy. After another ten million years the incandescent earth will have expended all of its heat into space by radiation and it gradually will cool. A new crust then begins to form anew. This is what we see at present on the planets Jupiter and Saturn, worlds just beginning to cool after emerging from their incandescent age.

Thus we find that worlds do not die. They slowly pass from one stage to another, in a long and interminable cycle. It is more than probable from the above that the earth must have passed many times through this cycle. Probably every time the world went up in flames man was at his highest point of civilization, infinitely further advanced than we are today. In an instant every living soul had perished, and for millions of years his like was not to tread again on the hardened earth crust.

This is the new and greater gospel of radium, the element which will emancipate man and which will destroy him and his all later—H. Gernsbach in Electrical Experimenter.

One of Jerrald's Retorts. Very tart was Douglas Jerrald's retort to a would be wit who, having fired off all his stale jokes with no effect, exclaimed:

"Why, you never laugh when I say a good thing."

"Don't?" said Jerrald. "Only try me with one."

You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.—James Anthony Froude.

Printer's Problem. Maria hit upon a problem the other day more perplexing than George's apple dumplings. She peered between the uncut leaves of a magazine and said: "Mother, how did they ever get the printing in there?"

A KING CAN HELP HIMSELF

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

His royal highness of Persia, finding that his treasury was empty again and that a prima donna would soon visit his capital to sing for him and would expect a sunburst as big as a dinner plate, called Murphy, his royal treasurer, to him and said:

"Murphy, thus far you have been a flat failure. Your suggestions about how to raise money have not been worth peanut shucks."

"Your highness, can a man make money out of nothing at all?" replied Murphy. "When I came here you had a full treasury; you had horses and carriages; you had a few diamonds left. Where have they gone? Excuse my plain speech, but you have wasted them in spite of all I could do. If they are gone, is it my fault?"

"Of course it is your fault," said the king. "It was your business as treasurer to keep my coffers supplied as fast as I emptied them. I am a king and must live as a king, and my treasurer must be constantly planning new ways to uphold my dignity. As a king who is almost dead broke can I have dignity? You know I can't. You don't seem to care a red cent whether I am humiliated or not."

"But I do care, O king. I care so much and have planned so much that my head is buzzing all the time. Just now it would be a relief to part with it."

"But I rather like you, after all, Mr. Murphy, and I shall let you keep your head on your shoulders for awhile and try to teach you something about finance. It is true that I spend large sums of money and that I have the reputation of being a waster, but I know how to finance and get the thing back. For instance, bring hither a poker deck."

Murphy disappeared for two minutes and then came back, bringing a pack of cards and a face that showed dejection and despair. He had had that trick worked on him before, and it was coming again.

"Now, then, Murphy, I owe you about $5,000 back salary, don't I?" asked the king.

"It's all of that, your majesty," was the reply.

"Well, I'll give you a chance to win some more. Cut for deal. I take the first deal. How many cards do you want?"

"None, O king."

"Ah! You have got a pat hand, eh? Well, what is your bet?"

Murphy replied that he would go $10, and when the king saw him and raised him $10 more he had to keep it up. It finally came to a showdown with $500 in the pot, and the king showed a straight, while Murphy showed a flush.

"I take the pot!" exclaimed the king. "Not on that hand, your majesty. I have a flush here, and a flush beats a straight every time."

"It used to, but I changed it some time ago. Mr. Murphy, don't look so amazed."

"Now, then, I have got a scheme to work. You ought to have thought of it long ago, but haven't enough wit to. I want you to issue a royal edict that on next Sunday evening all my subjects who can gather here will witness a strange phenomenon. At the time the moon rises a second moon will rise also and there will be two moons in plain sight at one and the same time."

"But how can you make a second moon?" asked Murphy.

"I can't," replied the king.

"Then the people who come to see it will call you a faker, won't they?"

"They may call me anything they feel like, but they will have to pay cash for it. My little scheme is like this: The next day after the moonlight excursion I will notify all who were here to let it be known whether they saw one moon or two. They will be divided. While all will have seen only one moon, a part of them to flatter me will claim to have seen two."

"You are right there, O king," admitted Murphy.

"And I shall be right about other things, my old has been. I want you to see about boiling up about 5,000 bottles of clear water and labeling each bottle 'King's Eye-water.' I will proclaim to those who didn't see but one moon that something is wrong with their eyes and that they must use this eye water. The price will be 50 cents per bottle. I will also proclaim to those who say they saw two moons that something is also wrong with their eyes, and they must buy a bottle and pay the same price. Now, then, can you see the point after I have thrown it at you?"

"By George, but it is great!" exclaimed Murphy.

"Well, not so very great, but it will do it well," said the king. "If it will bring in at least $10,000 then I will admit that I don't rule the sun, the moon, the stars and the seven seas. Now, Murphy, we will have another hand at poker. Poker is a very pleasant and instructive amusement. You may win back all you have lost and $5,000 with it. I sincerely hope you will, for you are good hearted even if you don't understand finance. I will take a deal, and I hope you get a straight flush the very first hand."

But Murphy said he heard riot going on in the street and that his presence was badly needed out there, or the palace itself might be attacked, and he hurried away and thus saved the balance of the little fortune that he kept locked up in his trunk.

KNITTED TAMS.

Tip About Making This Most Popular Headgear.

Knitters are directing all their attention to the making of tam-o'-shanters just now. While the tams will be worn to skating parties by grownups, they are intended largely for school-girls.

One attractive model of old rose wool is knitted on to a black velvet band, which fits closely around the head. The top of the cap is finished with a fluffy ball of fur.

Crocheted flowers are used extensively to decorate some tams. They are very effective affairs, the flowers adding a festive touch to the caps. No matter whether the flowers match the color of the tam or not, the result is just as smart in one case as in the other.

If one is making a tam for a girl who owns a roman striped scarf the colors of the neckpiece should be introduced in the hat. The entire hat might follow this suggestion, or a few rows of varicolored wool might be woven around the top of the model. Another method would be to finish the cap with a tassel made of various colored pieces of wool or silk.

It is really interesting to see the many shapes used for the caps. Some are round, others are square, many are hexagonal, while a few are made with diamond shaped pieces joined to give the tam eight sides.

A cheerful tam of yellow is crocheted in the alternate stitch. This stitch is done so that every two rows form a rib. A single crochet stitch is taken throughout, except that it is made through only the back of the next stitch, alternating straight through the entire strip. A military touch is gained by the introduction of a black velvet chin strap.

Apple Dumplings

Pare and chop one apple for each dumpling. Prepare a crust consisting of one and one-half cups of flour, one large teaspoonful of baking powder, one heaping tablespoonful of butter and moisten with enough milk to roll out. Cut in squares for each dumpling and fill with the apples. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Wet the edges, pinch together, place in a baking pan, fill with boiling water seasoned with one cupful of sugar and a half cupful of butter. This makes the sauce. Bake until the apples are done.

Silence Cloth.

Those of us who still cling to tablecloths instead of polished wood have often wondered at the exasperating qualities of the cotton flannel silence cloth. Almost every hot dish placed over it causes it to stick closer than a brother to the polished table and to leave white, fuzzy rings on the wood.

Instead, make a silence cloth out of cheesecloth or other washable material, with several layers of paper between the two folds. Overcast the edges and knot here and there, as in a quilt.

Orange-Grape Salad.

Cut six oranges into small pieces after removing seeds and white fiber and set to drain and chill. Open a pint can of peeled and seeded grapes; drain and add them to the oranges; add a chopped red pepper and use a heated fruit salad dressing, a light mayonnaise or a small quantity of heavy French dressing.

RUSE OF A CHINAMAN.

Clever Way He Got Around the Law and Gained His Case.

A cemetery is the one sacred spot in China. To desecrate such a place is the worst of crimes. Some years since there lived in a village on the plain of the Yellow River a man called Tu. His little farm furnished him with a comfortable living, but nothing more. Like all farms in that part of China, there was no fence to separate his fields from those of his neighbors. One of these neighbors was a rascal, who, knowing Mr. Tu to be of mild disposition, resolved to impose upon him by plowing a few furrows of Mr. Tu's land and thus incorporating it with his own. This act did not pass unobserved, but Mr. Tu was cautious as well as mild. He knew that litigation came high and was uncertain, "Better," he said to himself, "to endure the wrong than to suffer loss of both land and money."

The next year the neighbor repeated the experiment and plowed up a few more furrows. Again Mr. Tu consulted with himself and determined, as previously, that law was too expensive a luxury for him.

The neighbor, encouraged by this complaisance, continued to add to his own acres at the other's expense. At length he became so bold as to incorporate in this way the family cemetery, where were buried Mr. Tu's ancestors.

Then Mr. Tu saw the chance for which he had been waiting. By plowing up this cemetery the neighbor had committed sacrilege. The only dishonorable way that the punishment was so severe that it might not be possible, unless he was careful, to get his neighbor punished at all. For the law was that if the magistrate should take notice of the suit he would have to send up a report to his superiors at the capital of the province and request that proper punishment be inflicted upon himself, seeing that so heinous a crime had been committed in the district for which he was responsible.

Accordingly Mr. Tu brought the matter before the magistrate in a way that did not involve that official. He brought accusation against his father, who was dead, for having moved his grave off his son's land to that of the encroaching neighbor instead of abiding in the cemetery where he properly belonged.

The Chinese love humor and greatly admire shrewdness. When, therefore, the magistrate read this amazing document he smiled with genuine appreciation of Mr. Tu's cleverness, called up the offending neighbor, made him restore all the land he had appropriated and punished him with due severity for his robbery.—Youth's Companion.

KINGSTON, N. Y., JAN. 11, 1917.

Re-election of President Robert H. Leighton by the reorganized Chamber of Commerce is in itself a compliment of no inconsiderable force for that energetic officer, whose part in the recent successful expansion movement was conspicuously useful. Under his able direction, the enlarged body should be ready to proceed in the shortest possible time to a realization of some of the manifold benefits possible of attainment through a united membership truly representative of every part of the life of the community. The new movement is bound to be successful. The efforts of that small but energetic body of citizens whose activities are destructive rather than constructive cannot hinder the new Chamber of Commerce in the achievement of any item of a rational and permanent program of effort. Such groups of opponents of every movement for community betterment are rightly styled "knockers," and it is to be hoped that their disintegration, as cleverly enacted by High School students in the little skit staged at the organization meeting, will be productive of the greatest possible benefit to the City of Kingston. To President Leighton and the former Board of Directors, who took the preliminary steps for bringing the Chamber up to modern standards, the thanks of the enlarged body and its new officers are due. With a tried pilot at the helm, and a loyal and greatly strengthened membership to serve as the crew, the Chamber of Commerce can now set sail upon the sometimes stormy sea of community service with every expectation of bringing into port numerous cargoes of great value to the city and to everyone of the thirty odd thousand inhabitants that Kingston is bound to include within its borders before another decade.

Does the spirit of Christmas pass with the Christmas trees out upon the garbage heap and asphodels now so many withered evergreens are now even harder to believe that some of the curt crotchets one encounters in the course of a day are the same persons so benevolently beaming on everyone just a little more than a fortnight ago, when all the world was thinking for a brief space of something beside self and helping by word and deed to contribute a bit to the happiness of others. Even the olive branch of peace seems to be withering in the reaction which succeeds the advent of the anniversary of the era when peace on earth, good will toward men, was first proclaimed. At the present time when another cold wave is at hand and the needs of unfortunates are made even more pressing, the influence of the benevolent patron Saint of the Yuletide cuts no figure. Christmas sentiment, have not survived the holidays and the good resolutions of the New Year dealt more with individual conduct that with the acknowledgment of any part in the permanent program of philanthropic effort. This is left to the Bureau of Social Service and other agencies whose work is without end. It would be a pretty good New Year's resolution, even though it be a bit late, to resolve to do one's best to assist this organization in its sane efforts to help needy persons to help themselves not only at Christmas time but all the year round.

Another explanation of President Wilson's mental processes comes from Professor Charles Gray Shaw, professor of philosophy at New York University, who announces the important psychological discovery that the chief magi-istrate possesses the "new will." The learned authority quoted deems the "new will" as turning inward upon the brain instead of passing out through hand or tongue. It is an interesting explanation. No other yet vouchsafed by philosophers and psychologists so satisfactorily explains the cause of the cerebral congestion manifested by the occupant of the White House. It also clarifies our attitude toward Mexico and the influence that has made the Pershing punitive expedition retroactive in its effect. The professor asserts that Colonel Roosevelt has a primitive mind, although his is an advanced type and so to the former President the will of Wilson seems weak and vacillating. There are a whole lot of other primitive minds in this country, according to Professor Shaw's characterization. The new will is something too far advanced for the popular comprehension and the same is true of the policies of the President.

Work for the Bishop.
Mother was expecting an important visitor—no less a person than a bishop. And among her other preparations she was anxiously instructing the children how to behave. "Now, dears," she said as a last warning, "I want you to keep very quiet and good while the bishop is here, and not to say or do anything which might make me feel affronted." Little four-year-old Mary looked up at her with tears in her star-like eyes.

No, He Was Not an Orator.
A Washington newspaper man was once a member of congress from an Ohio district. He is not an orator, and rarely makes a speech. When he was running for congress he got word that he must come to a small town on the edge of his district to attend a meeting. A famous "spell-binder" had been secured, and the candidate was expected to be there, to shake hands and show himself. When he arrived at the village he was horror-stricken to find that the speaker of the occasion had missed his train and would not be there. "Come right up to the hall," said the chairman of the delegation that met him. "There's a big crowd there and they are anxious to hear some talking." The candidate went in fear and trembling. He was introduced, and talked for fifteen minutes. He started to sit down, but the chairman motioned him to continue. He went on for another quarter of an hour, and by that time had told all he knew, or ever expected to know, that was of interest to his audience. Then he dropped into his chair. The man who was presiding came cheerfully forward and said: "We have heard our candidate. Now, if there is anyone present who can make a speech, we shall be glad to hear him."—Rochester Times.

Port Ewen, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Alonzo Terpening of Hayard street left on Wednesday on the 12:11 West Shore train for Jersey City to spend a few weeks with her husband.

Mrs. Harry Jump and son, Cleon, of Broadway are visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Jump in Hensenville for a few days.

The meeting of the Dorcas Society has been postponed to Friday evening, January 13. Will the members kindly take notice of the change of date?

Mrs. John Groves, who has spent a few weeks with relatives in Brooklyn, has returned to her home on Broadway.

All those who wish to attend the tabernacle service at Kingston this evening will meet at the ice cream parlor of Alexander Crook on Broadway at 6:45 o'clock.

One of Port Ewen's oldest and most respected citizens, Robert Fairbrother, died at his home on Green street Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock. Mr. Fairbrother was always an industrious man and leaves behind a career worthy of emulation.

In politics he was a staunch Democrat and voted at the last election, and was unusually well at that time and complaining of a slight cold at the time of his death, heart failure being the cause. He leaves to mourn his loss two sons, William Fairbrother of Brooklyn and George Fairbrother, with whom he lived. The funeral will be held at his late residence Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Interment in Port Ewen Cemetery.

The article in Wednesday evening's paper regarding the runaway accident was somewhat misleading, as Ernest Hutchings was not driving his team as stated and the wagon "turned over" in front of the residence of George Brodhead instead of the Sleigh Homestead. The team did not free itself from the wagon, but took the wagon to the chain ferry with them. This was one of the unavoidable accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Snyder of Connelly called on Mrs. Elizabeth Lefever at her home on Riverside avenue Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Lefever is very ill of pneumonia.

Mrs. A. Bauman of Poughkeepsie installed the officers of Exopus Council No. 42, Sons and Daughters of Liberty, Wednesday evening. After the installation a banquet was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Kendrick of Ulster Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Rose A., to Gilbert W. Terpening of Newport, R. I.

Mrs. A. Bauman of Poughkeepsie is the guest of Mrs. John Halliday on Bowen street.

Miss Katharine Kendrick lost a small green pocketbook containing a two dollar bill Saturday evening between the chain ferry and the cemetery. Finder kindly leave at the Port Ewen post office.

Owing to the meetings being held in the Reformed Church this week in observance of the "week of prayer," the meeting of the Dorcas Society, which was to have been held on Friday night will be postponed until one week later, January 19.

Burhans and son, Curtis, Mrs. Clarence Bennett and children Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dutcher, Mrs. Ruth A. Mahen, Miss Mildred Mahen, Johnson and Martin Mahen, Miss Ella Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Porter, Miss Marian Holmes, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Turck and daughter, Alida.

The special services of the Methodist Episcopal Church will probably end this week. The service on Sunday evening was led by George E. Jocelyn.

Mrs. Floyd Dietz spent New Years with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Freer at Kingston.

Theodore Menchen of Woodhaven, L. I., has purchased from Mrs. Isaac Lawrence of Kingston, her Fourth Blinewater property and is going to fit same for the summer boarding business. He moved his furniture here last Saturday on a large auto truck and when it reached the hollow by William Esely's, broke the universal joint in the drive shaft. Luther Keator finished the journey for him by loading the furniture on two of his large wagons and delivering the same.

Frank Schrowang made a trip to town Monday morning behind his sorrel stepper.

Grant Richardson has moved his family to the farm which he recently purchased.

Fritz Hiert and William Heule drove to town on Monday morning with a load of choice apples for the Mohican Co.

Mrs. William Post and daughter, Nabel, were visitors in town on Tuesday.

Whiteport.

Nathaniel Dietz and sister, Corilla, of Rifton were callers last Friday on Mr. and Mrs. F. Straub.

Levey Osterhout of Kripplbush gave 20 of the women of the Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church a sleigh ride on Tuesday evening. They called on Joe Osterhout and daughter, Anna, where they spent a very enjoyable time, returning home in the wee small hours of Wednesday morning so as to enjoy the moonlight ride.

Joe Osterhout has gone to Kingston with his team, where he will be engaged for Graham Rose for a fortnight hauling cordwood.

Mrs. T. Nelson had to have her old sorrel horse shot on Tuesday to put him out of his misery.

Mrs. Elsie Kempf of College Point, L. I., and young lady friend spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kleiber and called on Mr. and Mrs. Francis T. Buck Thursday evening.

Playing to Crowded Houses.

"The Daughter of the Gods," the motion picture which features Annette Kellerman, is playing to crowded houses at Newburgh this week. Its presentation at Kingston opera house will be for three days next week—Thursday, Friday and Saturday—with matinee and evening performances each day. The story of the play is unfolded in the method of "really and truly" fairy tales, beginning with "Once upon a time," and nothing has been left undone to interpret the beautiful story in a way that would put the story of Aladdin's Lamp to shame. Nothing more beautiful pictorially ever has been shown on the motion picture screen.

The Peterson Concert.

The concert to be given by Miss May Peterson as the second of the Dodge series was erroneously stated in The Freeman to be given Friday evening at Association Hall. It will be given instead in the high school auditorium where the first concert was given last November.

WHERE MANKIND WAS REBORN

The Story of Florence Epitomizes the Story of Humanity.

The story of Florence is the story of humanity: the broad, deep, moving epic of the awakening of man to his own divine power; the story of wonderful self made men who had but one idea in common—the thirst for free activity of soul.

So the tale of the new birth, the renaissance, is the record of individual spirit so free, so subtle and elastic, so profoundly penetrating to the springs of human purpose, that it has furnished the motive power of the world ever since, and Florence, as its source and focus, because of the conditions then obtaining in the city and throughout Italy, was the one spot in the world capable of producing such an epoch making upheaval of human consciousness.

And all this astonishing genius grew directly out of—business! The city was peopled by men who manufactured the necessities of life, by merchants, speculators, bankers, tradesmen, artisans, handicraftsmen of every type. Business, work, was a condition of active participation in the life of the state, and because they did not work the nobles were debased from this.

It was the burghers, the people, who ruled, and even when evil chance laid the state under the heavy hand of a despot he was forced to develop his own character to the uttermost, because his rule depended entirely upon his capacity as a man. The aristocracy accordingly was that of intelligence, of men who became eminent because, first of all, they were the best in their own individual work.

Under the practical inspiration of these mental giants Florence was created and learned to view life from within instead of superficially. She learned that the individual is the soul of the state and that the state can succeed only when it is true to the best interests of its individual.—A. S. Kings in National Geographic Magazine.

The Other Fellow.

Too many speak of the "average man" with a faraway look.—Telede Blade.

POLICEMEN LIKE TEN-CENT DINNERS.

Richard E. Lyons, of the squad of twelve New York "rookie" policemen who volunteered for the twenty-five-cent-a-day dietary test, shown consuming his first ten-cent dinner. Most of the "victims" of the test appeared to relish their food, and all Lyons is shown eating consisted of lamb stew with vegetables, stewed apricots, gingerbread and coffee. It remained well and strong on food not costing more than twenty-five cents a day.

Hint for the Housewife.

If your fingers are fruit-stained after cooking, soap your hands thoroughly before you let any water touch them. That will take away the stain at once, but if you wet them first, you will find it very difficult to get them clean.

Cruel and Unusual.

Carle was trying to convince his little brother of something which was not in accordance with his own views. He argued for several minutes, when little brother ran to his mother, exclaiming: "Mamma, Carle just keeps arguing and arguing with me."

SENATOR WALTON'S WORK RECOGNIZED

Kingston Legislator Heads Conservation and Holds Place on Three Other Important Committees—Le-Fevre on Assembly Ways and Means—Brink's Assignments.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 11.—Special.—Four important committee assignments fell to Senator Charles W. Walton of the Ulster-Greene district, announcements of the senate committees being made by Lieutenant-Governor Schoenick on Wednesday. Senator Walton is made a member of the new committee on the city of New York and also has a place on the judiciary committee, the second committee in importance in the upper house. In addition to these, Senator Walton is chairman of the committee on conservatism which has much to do with legislation affecting the Catskills as well as the natural resources of the state and is a member of the committee on agriculture which has come to be so widely recognized as one of the most important subjects before legislative bodies.

Few senators have been given an equal number of committee assignments as Senator Walton and his recognition in this respect is due to the fact that he is an indefatigable worker who devotes much time and thought to the study of measures introduced in the upper house.
The committee on agriculture bids fair to be one of the most important committees in the legislature because of the proposed bills affecting food and market conditions. A bill to regulate food and markets and based upon the high cost of living, is now in course of preparation by the bill-drafting commission.

Ulster county assemblymen have been given important committee assignments by Speaker Theodore C.
Sweet of the assembly. Assemblyman LeFevre has been appointed to the committee on ways and means, the first committee in importance on the assembly side. He has also been made a member of the committee on revision.

Assemblyman Brink has been placed on insurance, public education and commerce and navigation.

Terwilliger.

Church each evening have been well attended. Rev. W. H. Moser delivered the sermons Monday and Tuesday evenings and Rev. George H.
Smith Wednesday evening. Service
again Thursday evening.

Tumor on the boards again to the effect that the Wayside Inn is to have new proprietors. It is understood that New York parties are negotiating for an exchange of property with Proprietor O. O. Krause.

Editors of Dailies to Meet.

The annual meeting of the Associated Dailies will be held at the Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany, Tuesday, January 23, at 10 a. m. L. B. Palmer, manager of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, will speak on the news print situation, and Courtland Smith, head of the American Press Association, will speak on advertising. Governor Whitman will also speak at the dinner in the evening.

HOW TO PRESS CLOTHES WITH THE BEST RESULTS

Good pressing is not only an important part of dressmaking and tailoring, but is also one of the most important features in the care of clothing. Skirts should be pressed over an ironing board. The board should not be too heavily padded. The covering should be drawn tightly and should be of a firm, smooth material that will not leave the imprint of the texture or weave. Darts and curved seams should be pressed over a curved surface such as a tightly padded cushion. Sleeve seams may be pressed over the handle of a broom after covering it smoothly with cloth. Use the curved edge or side of the ironing board when pressing open seams. This prevents the edge of the seam being pressed into the garment. Nearly all pressing is done on the wrong side of the garment. The seams may be dampened if the material permits. For surface pressing lay over the material a damp cloth and press dry. When pressing on the right side a firm dry cloth is first placed over the garment. Use a rather heavy iron for pressing. Press slowly. Lift and place the iron, bearing down heavily. Always avoid a sliding motion, as it is apt to stretch the material.

ABOUT ALUMINUM.

Why This Light Metal Alloy Is Just Being Used.

Aluminum, though the most abundant of all metals, constituting about 8 per cent of the earth's crust, has only recently come into general use, and a third of a century ago the world's annual production had scarcely reached 100 pounds. At a cost of many dollars a pound, its extreme lightness, its specific gravity of 2.58 being hardly one-third of that of iron, is one of its most valuable properties, though it is very useful on other accounts. Magnesium, also very abundant in nature, even lighter than aluminum, with a specific gravity of only 1.74, is pointed out as the next addition to our common metals, but is still very expensive on account of the war demand and the present unsatisfactory methods of reducing it from its compounds. Its alloys, as strong as soft steel and only 30 per cent as heavy, are expected to come into extensive demand for aeroplanes and dirigibles and even largely to displace the aluminum alloys now used by the thousands of tons annually in the automobile industry. Magnesium is a much stronger deoxidizer than aluminum, and when less than 2 per cent is added to aluminum, nickel, brass, copper, bronze, and the like the metal is not only freed from oxide, but may be very greatly improved in tensile strength, resistance to shock and ease of machining. In warfare photography and photography magnesium has special value as a brilliant illuminant.

How to Manipulate a Tablecloth That Is Too Long For a Short Table.

Sometimes it is necessary to use a tablecloth that is too long for the dining table. Instead of folding it under at one end try folding it under in the center, so that the outer edge crosses the cloth right at the center, at right angles to the long crease. This makes it look like another crease, when it has been flattened down as much as possible, and the edge that is folded under is not so bulky or noticeable as an end because it lies not the hem to make it so.

It leaves the ends as they should be and is more easily concealed by the centerpiece and dishes.

How to Freshen Velvet Without Paying the Price of Good Steaming.

The usual way to steam velvet is over a hot radiator covered with a wet cloth. Another way is to dampen evenly the back of the velvet and use no cloth, or it may be held before the spout of a kettle in the steam. The best way, however, is to put a large wet cloth upon the top of the range or stove that is not hot, but just warm, and lay the velvet upon this. In this way the velvet can lie there and steam thoroughly and so get the pile well raised without steaming the hands and face. To steam more slowly and keep the cloth from drying too soon put a stout paper beneath it.

How to Mend a Tablecloth, Sheets and Bedspreads.

"When a tablecloth begins to break or a small hole appears," says a writer in the Farm and Fireside, "cut a piece of white paper somewhat larger than the place to be mended, paste over the hole and stitch on sewing machine, lengthwise and crosswise, very closely and evenly. It will look much neater and is easier than darning or patching by hand. I also mend sheets and bedspreads the same way. The paper will disappear when washed."

How to Brighten Tan Shoes Without a Footbath.

When tan boots or shoes become darkened, wash them well with warm water and a little soft soap, using a stiff brush for the purpose. This will remove all the dirt and old polish. When thoroughly dry, polish again.

To Keep Hands in Condition.

Keep a cleansing and a softening fluid in the kitchen, so that after a task which is apt to leave ugly stains or rough skin one can use either preparation immediately. The quicker the action, the quicker will be the results.

VINDICATED THE MULE.

A Legal Case Where the Honor of the Animal Was Involved.

One of the most famous cases reported in the Missouri Law Reports is that of Lyman versus Dale, known as the "celebrated mule case."

It seems that Dale's hired hand, Parker, after a day's work supplying water to a clover boiler, was passing through the city of Springfield, riding one mule and leading another. He met Lyman just opposite a pile of bricks in the street, capped by a red lantern. The mule being led became frightened at the bricks and lantern and, jumping aside, broke a wheel out of Lyman's buggy.

This laid the foundation of the case. Lyman sued Dale for a damage of $5, charging him with "negligence in handling a wild and unruly mule."

The case was first tried in a justice of the peace court at Springfield, Mo., and was appealed to the circuit court. From there it was taken to the court of appeals, which court, failing to agree, sent it to the supreme court of the state.

This court held that Lyman could not recover damages unless he proved that the mule was "wild and unruly."

Judge Henry Lamm said that, while the amount involved in the case was small, the value of the case was great for the sake of the doctrine and also because it involved the "honor of the Missouri mule."—Exchange.

Who Owns the Falkland Islands?

Few people are aware to this day that the Falkland Islands are marked in all Argentine maps and geographies as unlawfully retained by Great Britain. The origin of the dispute was that England after abandoning the islands in 1774 resumed possession in 1820. The Argentine government protested and, as A. Stuart Pennington points out in his book on the country, is even today "careful to do nothing which could even apparently recognize the rights of the present possessors." It was for that reason that it declined a proposal a few years ago to run a line of Argentine ships to the islands.

Beautiful Bridges.

Popular lore of art may be carried too far. The author of "Charles Tourbion, Constable of France," tells us that on the occasion of the sack of Rome the citizens refused to secure their safety by taking the advice of their captain, Reuzo da Ceri, and cutting the bridges Ponte Quattro Capli and Ponte Sisto. The people declined on the ground that they were "too beautiful."

An Ox Hide.

"Thomas," said the professor to a pupil in the junior class in chemistry, "mention an oxide."
"Leather," replied Thomas.
"What is leather an oxide of?" asked the professor.
"An oxide of beef," answered the bright youngster.—Chicago News.

Was Coming Back.

"Seemed to saddle old Geldbox when his new son-in-law said goodbye after the wedding. Is he so fond of him?"
"Well, not exactly. You see, the new son-in-law didn't say goodbye; he said 'Au revoir.'"—Browning's Magazine.

By La Recontense.

Premet designed this stunning three-piece suit in navy blue velvet, fashioned with vest and cuffs of moleskin and a gay note afforded by the Roman striped robe in the skirt.

A separate blouse of two-tone chiffon matching colors in the taffeta affords an exquisitely rich and charming feature. As a suit, the costume is lovely with suitable hat and shoes.

PRIZES WON BY WORD BUILDERS

Thousands of Words Were Made From "Rose-Gorman-Rose, Inc." by Cussy Builders Who Earned Valuable Prizes.

Winners in the Rose-Gorman-Rose, Inc. name contest were announced today by the judges who have been working overtime in going over the more than 1,000 lists submitted before the close of the competition on December 15th last. Two members of the high school faculty, Miss Lillian S. Hurt and Miss Margaret R. Cordes, both college graduates, carried off honors in the contest. The contest, which was held in the name of the greatest number of words found in the firm name, was one of the most successful ever instituted in Kingston mercantile history.

The awards, with the exception of third prizes for the boys and girls, which will be announced Friday with the judges' report, are as follows: Boys under 16.—First prize to Rufus C. Van Aken, 22 West O'Reilly street, 2,318 eligible words, one $9.98 Ives' electrical railroad; second prize, Daniel C. Joyce, of 418 Hasbrouck avenue, aged 9 years, 2,990 words, one Struck mechanical building outfit.

Girls under 16.—First prize, Rhoda H. Trowbridge, 77 Foxhall avenue, 1,990 words, prize $10, imported bisque doll; second prize, Dorothy Beers, 197 West Chester street, aged 12 years, 1,822 words. Prize $6.75 go-cart.

Adults' prizes.—First prize, Miss Lillian S. Hurt, 44 Maiden Lane, who submitted the highest number of eligible words, 3,065. Prize, one $45 Glenwood kitchen range. Miss Hurt is a teacher in the high school and a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College.

Second prize, Miss Margaret R. Cordes, 44 Maiden Lane, 2,950 words, prize a $27.50 Hoosier kitchen cabinet. Miss Cordes is also a teacher in the high school and is a graduate of Cornell.

Of the 1,000 contestants a silver-plated souvenir will be presented to each whose list came within the prescribed minimum.

MRS. FREDDIE WELSH & CHILDREN.

WELSH'S "THREE REASONS" FOR WINNING HIS FIGHTS.

Freddy Welsh is one of the earliest boxers in the game. He shifts and dances about the arena as if he were afraid that once hit he would be knocked out. A friend asked Freddy his reasons for this style of boxing. "I must win for three reasons," said Freddy. "They are important reasons, consequently I can't take chances. One reason is Mrs. Welsh and the other two are the two little Welshes."

POWER OF FROST.

Fall of a Fifty Ton Boulder of Granite in the Yosemite.

Delicate frost tracings on the wind-swept peaks seem to be the work of fanciful and harmless sportiveness, but the hand that forms them is capable of greater deeds and other kinds.

An official of the geological survey tells of an experience that must have been wonderfully impressive to the spectator. He had been spending some weeks in exploring the Yosemite valley and the "great rocks," like El Capitan, that wall it in.

Standing one day of late autumn about the middle of the valley, he was startled by a report like a cannon shot, which filled the whole valley with echoes that roared and boomed, repeated and multiplied, in a long continued, glorious tumult.

As the deafening sound died away in sullen mutterings under the visor of El Capitan the spectator was able to distinguish the point of attack by the long, clattering descent of a vast quantity of rock.

The night had been a cold one in the valley, and on the 7,000 and 8,000 foot levels of the upper rim the temperature must have dropped almost to zero.

Frost, working quietly with his Archimedeian lever, had just succeeded in shifting from the shoulder of the sentinel a trifle of fifty tons or so of granite. For near a thousand feet the boulder fell sheer, swift and silent; then, striking the cliff, it burst like a bomb, shattered into a myriad flying shrapnel and splinters and dislodged a smother of fragments that trickled down to the valley in a stream that lasted for minutes.

Then from the spot where the boulder had struck dust began to rise into the sunny air, slowly building up like a summer cloud and every bit as snowy. It was the flour of granite, powdered instantaneously by the terrific shock.

NERVE OF A STEEPJACK.

His Coolness and Resource in a Time of Extreme Peril.

Ordinary people standing on a narrow ledge whence they can see down 200 or 300 feet are so appalled by the danger of falling that their nerves give way, their bodies flinch and there comes to some at least an impulse to end the mental straits by a leap into the gulf. But the steepjack is indifferent to height and proximity to the abyss.

The coolness and resource of these men were never better shown than in a case which happened in upper New York state a few years ago. A steepjack had down his kite over a chimney and subsequently drawn himself up to the top. He was just beginning his inspection of the work when by some mishap he dropped his rope and was left, like St. Simeon Stylites, alone on his pillar.

Attempts were made to fly another kite over him, but the wind had dropped. There were iron ladders inside the chimney, but the fires would have to be drawn and the chimney let cool for hours.

The steepjack was then seen to unlunge one of his shoes, take off the long blue stocking worn by such workmen and set to work carefully to unravel it, knotting the pieces of yarn together when necessary.

He then fastened a stone to the end, plumbed the depth, picked the other stocking to pieces and added it to the first length of yarn and let it down far enough to meet a tall ladder, from which he drew up first a piece of strong string, next a rope and then after completing his inspection of the chimney top lowered himself to the ground.—Los Angeles Times.

Origin of an Old Saying.

Many think that the saying "Blood is thicker than water" originated with Commodore Tatnall of the United States navy, who assisted the English in the Chinese waters, and, in his dispatch to his government, justified his interference by quoting the words. It is, however, an old English proverb and is to be found in Ray's "Collection of English Proverbs," published in 1672. Walter Scott, too, makes Dandie Dinmont say: "Weel, 'buid's thicker than water." She's welcome to the chesses and the hams, just the same." Philadelphia Press.

An Offensive Cravat.

A man once called upon Whistler with a letter of introduction, and an amusing scene followed arising out of the fact that the visitor was wearing a red necktie. Whistler declared it interfered with the color scheme of his room and "put him off" a picture he was painting in quite a different "key." Finally he obliged him to take off the offending cravat before he would descend to exchange another word with him.

United States Senator Owen.

Washington, Jan. 11.—Congress has before it today the joint resolution introduced by Senator Owen, designed to take away from the United States supreme court the power to declare an act of congress unconstitutional. The assumption of this power by the federal courts, Owen declares, takes away from the "sovereignty" of the people of the United States.

Effective Danger Sign.

A contractor who has observed that pedestrians pay little attention to signs has evolved a new plan to guard against accidents to "innocent bystanders." A steam shovel working many feet below the surface of the street attracts scores of persons daily. They stop, lean over the board railing around the excavation and stare. Sometimes the crowd gets so large that there is danger of the railing giving way and plunging them into the excavation. "Danger" signs don't worry them; hence the new idea of the contractor. He has sneaked the top of the railing with tar and grease. Now persons who never shudder at the "danger" sign flee from the grease menace as if it were poison.—Philadelphia North American.

Fanny Crosby's Memory.

The blind hymn writer, Fanny Crosby, who immortalized herself with "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," was capable of the most amazing exhibitions of "memory to forget." On one occasion she contracted to supply a publisher with ninety hymns. She composed forty-five of these, simply storing them in her memory without committing a word to paper. When she had finished the forty-fifth she began to dictate them, going right through without a pause. She then did the same with the other forty-five.—London Answers.

Boiled Oysters.

In "Social Life in the Reign of Queen Anne" Swift writes to Stella, "Lord Masham made me go home with him to eat boiled oysters," and then he obligingly adds the recipe: "Take oysters, wash them clean—that is, wash their shells clean; then put your oysters in an earthen pot with their hollow side down; then put this pot, covered, into a great kettle of water and let it boil. Your oysters are then boiled in their own liquor and do not mix with water."

It is said that a custom peculiar to Buddhists is that of wandering about the country with hammer and chisel and carving holy symbols upon rocks by the wayside.

Paper.

The invention of paper has had a vast influence upon the world. With-out paper our news would have to be printed on slabs of stone and bricks. Think of having your daily paper brought to your house in a moving van! It would seem almost like Sunday morning. Paper is used for various purposes—for treaties, for histories, for news, for theology, for war correspondence. Sometimes it is even used to record the truth.—Life.

Swiss railways use an ambulance car completely equipped with electrical appliances that are supplied with current by a generator mounted on one axle of the car.

Old Boycott on Coffee.

About thirty years or so ago nearly every family, including prohibitionists, drank Maracibo coffee. The demand for that brand of coffee was so great that the coffee lords increased the price of Maracibo coffee from 35 to 40 cents a pound. The Knights of Labor, headed by Terence Powderly, boycotted Maracibo coffee for thirty days, and before a week the whole country joined the boycott. Before the thirty days had expired Maracibo coffee sold at retail for 28 cents a pound.—Letter to New York Sun.

The loveliest girl at a party belongs to the mother of each girl there.

Much is done in the name of friendship, so are many.—Exchange.

Value of Goat's Milk.

For some reason goat's milk has never been popular in America, although in Europe, especially in France, Italy and Switzerland, it is much esteemed, particularly for babies. A goat can be kept at a small expense, where it would be impossible to keep a cow. Garden waste and roadside browse will support it. A small shed affords sufficient shelter. A goat is far cleaner in his habits than a cow and requires only such care as a child can give it. Let us get goats.—Youth's Companion.

THAW ARRESTED
ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Cut His Wrists and Slashed His Throat While Officers Were at the Door of House in Philadelphia in Which He Was "Resting."

HARRY K. THAW. FREDERICK GUMP, JR. (in chair)

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Philadelphia, Jan. 11.—Harry K. Thaw, located here this afternoon by detectives, attempted to commit suicide as they were about to arrest him.

With the officers at the door, Thaw cut his wrists and slashed his throat. He was removed to St. Mary's Hospital, where doctors at once set about determining the state of his injuries.

Thaw was traced by detectives here to a house near Fifty-third and Walnut streets, after a two day search. While New York detectives have been searching all over Pennsylvania for the slayer of Stanford White, he has been resting here.

ADVERTISEMENT WANTED.

ADVERTISERS who expect to win success with "Week to the Game" are a branch of a better business. But they must remember that the public is tired of "Gigantic Sales at Unusually Low Prices." Let us help you put "Week to the Game" in a better light. A wide advertisement that does not "talk" but "shows" is the best. My service may be had by any business man at reasonable terms. George M. Teller, care of Kingston Freeman.

HUDSON TO PLAY
K. H. S. TONIGHT

Tonight's basketball game between Hudson High and K. H. S. in the school gymnasium is the solitary amusement offered to the students this week end, but if the locals repeat their clever exhibition of last week and the up-river team boasts down a reputable team as contenders, the deficit will easily be repaired. Undoubtedly a large crowd will attend the match, availing themselves of this novel opportunity of absorbing basketball and dancing on a school night. Because of the Gough concert upstairs in the auditorium Friday evening and since the Hudson team could be engaged here for only this evening, the date of the game originally set for Friday was changed. The game will start at 7:30, dancing to following until 10:30, a half hour earlier than usual because of the lessons on the morrow. Kiernan will be ineligible to play because of being "down" in his studies. His berth will be taken by Hallinan, the regulars to fill the other positions.
